
Research assistant position in dermatology (Dr. Santiago F. González)

The Institute for Research in Biomedicine (IRB, Bellinzona), affiliated to the Università della Svizzera italiana (USI), is recruiting a Research assistant for an interdisciplinary project within the fields of toxicology and immunology. The initial duration of the contract will be 18 months. The ideal candidate should be a good team player with basic competence in the field of Immunology and dermatology. Basic knowledge about infectious diseases will be a plus.

Applicants should meet the following eligibility criteria:

- Have a relevant Master degree
- Excellent knowledge of English (spoken and written / proficiency level)
- Experience with immunology techniques
- Basic knowledge in toxicology

For applications submit your CV (Max. 2 pages), motivation letter and one reference letter to santiago.gonzalez@irb.usi.ch by November 30th, 2022.

References: See Santiago González webpage here